The reason inflation worries some people a lot more than others seems to be this: As money gets cheaper, goods and services become more valuable.

Inflation, in other words is a two-sided coin. Sure prices go up — but so do earnings. Sometimes one spurts ahead, then the other. But in the long slow, inflationary pull (to which U.S. fiscal policies for a number of years now have implicitly committed us) the theory is that one balances the other and the economy stays healthy.

But even the advocates of this theory of deliberate, controlled inflation do not argue that we benefit from a rush of increases in both prices and wages — and what they must also acknowledge is that inflation, fast or slow, tortures those citizens who live on fixed incomes.

The faster the inflation, the more painful the squeeze that is felt by those whose incomes will not rise, even with a lag, in response to increases in the cost of subsistence.

CONGRESSMAN Jim Haley writes eloquently on this topic from Washington this week, expressing the need for the Administration and the Congress to act before it is too late to help "those most vulnerable to inflation's wounds."

"Those who most quickly and severely feel the dreadful impact of the high cost of living, which is what inflation translates into as far as the individual is concerned, are the average wage earners who have retired and who are living on fixed incomes," says Haley.

"Past their productive years, these people must get by on income from pension plans or from investments in securities, and they have no escape from the damage done to their personal economies as the purchasing power of their limited number of dollars goes down as prices go up. "Persons still working have at least the chance of... offsetting the raise in prices... They may be inconvenienced, or even hurt to a substantial degree... But their problem is minor when compared to that of people who are living on retirement incomes... For while these fixed incomes do not change in actual amount, they do change — for the worse — in purchasing power, and the effect of this is exactly the same as if these retired persons suffered a pay cut."

HALEY POINTS OUT that a major reason why federal spending is up is, of course, our military intervention in Vietnam while, at the same time, the Administration keeps promoting Great Society programs and thus accelerating the federal plunge into debt that helps cheapen the dollar.

"The tragedy of this," he concludes, "is that these welfare state programs are aimed, or purportedly so, at helping the plight of the poor or the near-poor — the latter a class in which many, many retirees find themselves — but that instead of helping these people, the programs are hurting them through their contribution to inflation." — Sarasota (Fla.), Herald-Tribune

What to Do With Tidbits at Cocktail Parties Is an Ordeal

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is what to do with the tidbits served at cocktail parties, sometimes known as "the crunch and goo."

If they merely threw a platter of it in a guest's face, as if he were playing a role in an old Keystone Comedy, he could wipe it off—and laugh it off.

But hostesses are determined that a fellow eat the stuff, and he does that in the grim knowledge that he thereby becomes another statistic in America's alarmingly rising ulcer rate.

Before the canapes arrive, however, the guests must survive earlier adventures in crunch and goo.

The crunch and goo consists of a bowl of potato chips and a bowl of goo called "the dip." Every hostess has her own secret dip recipe and keeps it locked in a safe deposit box at the bank. Chemists who have broken them down, however, say most dips consist basically of a can of onion juice, mayonnaise, cream cheese and one or two jars of library paste, depending on the size of the party.

If the hostess has dipped a homeless clam in it, she refers to it as a clam dip; if she had dipped a lamb in it, it would be called lamb dip.

The main idea about the potato chips is to get them so soggy or thin that they either bend or snap in pieces when you try to use them to scoop up some of the dip. It is usually better to wait until no one is looking, then dip your hand into the dip bring up enough to wipe on the potato chip, gulp it down and slip hurriedly into the bathroom and wash.

Everybody gives a mandatory decorative skill of the hostess, for canape arranging now has become as formal an art in America as flower arranging is in Japan.

What are canapes made of? Is that sliced bread or crepe paper? Are those huddled little black dots real Russian caviar or merely tapoca cleverly camouflaged in India ink? Is this itty-bitty sandwich made of silvers of turkey, veal, or chicken—or itty-bitty wallboard shav. Whatever it is, it tastes the same. It also tastes like it had been left out on the fire escape for three nights in the rain to make it completely sodden. The only thing a man can identify for sure is that red thing that looks like a rosebud. It's a rad. Nobody goes to a cocktail party for the food. They go in spite. Nobody goes to a cocktail party for the conversation. How can you listen to a fellow explain our policy in Viet Nam when his upper plate is gummed with half a pound of collected Why then do people go to cocktail parties?

Could it be for the booze?

Station Plans an Opinion Program

KXAR will begin a telephone participation program Monday, Oct. 3rd, the title will be the "Sounding Board". A Question of the day will be asked and listeners are invited to Phone opinion or comments on Local, State or National issues.

KXAR will pose the first week of questions but after that they'll use questions suggested by listeners who write the station for that purpose. The "Sounding Board" will be Moderated by Jerry O'Neal and Elaine Petre.

KXAR will take no stand on any question but will simply afford local listeners a chance to express themselves. The program will be heard daily from 5:30 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. on KXAR.

Here are the first week questions:

Monday — Who do you think will make the best governor for Arkansas? Johnson or Rockefeller and why?

Tuesday — Are women's skirts too short?

Wednesday — Was the Supreme Court right in outlawing prayer in public schools?

Thursday — Do we allow our young people to drive at too early an age?

Friday — Should Hempstead County have legal liquor?

If you wish to have a question used, send a letter to "Sounding Board", KXAR, Box K, Hope, Arkansas, 71801.

Thieves Hit Kennedy Home

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — A burglar dropped in on his latest robbery — at a downtown grocery store. Officers say the man rented an apartment above the store, sawed a hole in the floor and dropped 10 feet into the store. He escaped with about $2,000 from the store's safe.

BOSTON (AP) — Boston University has broken ground for an 11-story building at its medical center that will increase the medical student body by one-third, to 384 students.

Transportation Secretary Is Assured

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appears sure to have a 12th Cabinet officer soon — a secretary of transportation with fewer powers than the President recommended.

The Senate approved creation of a department of transportation 64 to 2 Thursday.

The House passed similar legislation 336 to 42 on Aug. 30. Leaders said they expect no difficulty in working out a compromise although the Senate version includes the Federal Maritime Administration in the department and the House bill does not.

The bill would bring into one department government policies, functions and operations now carried on by almost 100,000 employees in 35 separate units. At present levels, it would have a $6.3 billion budget, fifth largest in the federal establishment.

The President has not indicated whom he might name to the expected new Cabinet post.

A key authority for the secretary to carry out his responsibility of trying to coordinate the nation's tangled transportation policies was heavily watered down in the Senate. The House struck it completely.

The section asked by Johnson would allow the secretary to fix standards and criteria for federal spending on transportation facilities.

The Senate Government Operations Committee wrote five exemptions from this authority into the bill and the Senate added a far-reaching sixth Thursday covering all federal grant-in-aid programs. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., said he was concerned particularly about highway funds.

Vacancies on Board Filled

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Four vacancies on county boards of election commissioners were filled Thursday.

The state Board of Election Commissioners named the replacements for men who resigned because of a law prohibiting commissioners from serving on another board or commission.

James O. Cuthbertson was named to replace O. S. Cash in Bradley County; Durward Owen to replace R. Chester List in Jefferson County; R. L. Thompson to replace Harold Whitson in Johnson County and Richard McCullough Jr. to replace Charles Adams in St. Francis County.

Harrison Okays Bonds

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — A $150,000 bond issue to finance expansion of the Arkansas Die Casting Co. here was approved Thursday by a vote of 297-48.

The bonds, to be issued under Act 9 of 1960, will pay for the construction of the plant and equipment for the facility. The expansion will provide 40 to 50 jobs initially and 20 or 30 additional jobs later, plant officials say.

Spending Bill Clears the House

By EDMOND LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's bill to squeeze some of the business-spending steam out of the swollen U.S. economy has cleared the House and now faces efforts in the Senate to exempt various industries.

The measure would suspend for about 16 months the 7 per cent investment tax credit that has helped produce a boom in machinery and equipment buying, plus fast depreciation provisions that encourage construction of industrial, commercial and apartment buildings.

About the time the House was passing the bill 221 to 118 Friday, Johnson was appealing to 10 more governors to trim public spending in their states in conjunction with the administration's anti-inflation program.

All but one of the 10 governors indicated a willingness to try to do some economizing. Gov. Paul B. Johnson, Mississippi Democrat, remained silent when the governors met with newsmen after the third in a series of White House conferences. Johnson is holding with state chief executives.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a Republican, said he told the President: "I know all of us want to cooperate."

But one governor who met with the President earlier in the week, Republican Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, said Johnson is to blame for inflation. Bellmon told an Oklahoma City news conference the federal government should try to curb its spending before asking the states to.

But Bellmon apparently didn't get this point over to Johnson.

Says People Sour on Both Major Parties

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, campaigning for his wife for governor, says people across the nation have turned sour on both major political parties.

Still appearing in the role of a "maybe" presidential candidate, Wallace nevertheless promised thousands of cheering, banner-waving followers Thursday night that he will "keep on fighting Lyndon B. Johnson" and do it "in the states where it counts."

It was the formal kickoff of Lurleen Wallace's race for governor against a Republican and an independent, and it brought loud and frequent rebel yells from a crowd estimated by Police Capt. George Wall at 8,000 to 10,000.

Wallace divided his criticism between Johnson and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, choice of many Southern Republicans for president in 1968.

Wallace said more people than ever before are listening to him now when he deplores the trends toward centralized government which he said are prevalent in the nation.

He pointed to segregationist Lester G. Maddox's victory in the Democratic gubernatorial runoff primary in Georgia as evidence the states rights movement is gaining momentum "day by day, hour by hour, across these United States."

He said the "overwhelming majority of the people in this country are not in agreement with the leadership of both parties." In fact, he added, if he had stayed in the presidential race in 1964 instead of withdrawing, "We would have gotten more votes than the Republican candidate (Barry Goldwater) got."

"What we need is a two-party system in the United States," he said. "If there is any difference between a national Democrat and a national Republican, you tell me what it is."

Mrs. Wallace, 40, wearing a white skirt and blue jacket emblazoned with the crest of Alabama, joined her husband in promising an unrelenting battle for states rights.

If Your Are Searching for Manpower Why Not Try the Handicapped

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

America is swept up in a great manpower search.

Business organizations, large and small, are searching for men and women of high skill and specialized training—stenographers and lawyers, accountants and managers. Behind the manpower hunt is an old saw that still holds a keen edge: An organization is no better than its people. Competent, interested employees are essential to profitable enterprise.

So far, so good. These facts are not new, but they are leading up to something, as you might suspect.

Men and women with physical impairments can make an important contribution to employers and to society. In overcoming or compensating for physical limitations, they already have shown unusual initiative and courage. But can they produce competent service?

Luther H. Hodges, Secretary of Commerce, has said that hiring the disabled is not simply a matter of humanitarianism; it is good business. Industry is learning this, and the number of handicapped persons on payrolls is growing every day. By returning to productive life people who would otherwise be idle, the business world is contributing to an active economy.

When properly placed, the handicapped worker becomes an able employee who stands on his own feet, does a full day's work and supports himself and his family. But many times this important source of manpower is not utilized to its fullest extent, and potential talent goes unused.

Maj. Gen. Melvin J. Maas, USMC Ret., chairman of the President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped, said, "We ask employers who do not include the handicapped in their hiring programs to TRY JUST ONE. Select him carefully and place him properly on the basis of his ability to do the work that has to be done. I am certain that his performance on the job will cause you to want more qualified handicapped workers."

October 2-8 is Hire the Physically Handicapped Week. And now for some tips to the handicapped job seekers. Keep in mind that your ability counts—not your disability. There is no job that requires 100 per cent of a worker's physical capacity. Even if you are limited by your handicap from doing some kinds of work, there still are many jobs you can do, according to your remaining capacities, your special skills, abilities, training, interests, and previous work experience.

Know the demands of the job you are applying for, then match your own physical capacities with working conditions of the job. Most employers agree that anyone, handicapped or not, who is willing to work hard has an equal chance of getting hired and advancing in their companies. Remember—your successful performance on the job, when you're disabled job seekers.

U.S. Planes Bomb Red Targets

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers pounded Communist troops in South Viet Nam with two raids today for a second consecutive day of double strikes.

One of the raids hit at North Vietnamese infiltration routes just south of the demilitarized zone where American Marines are fighting North Vietnamese forces in Operation Prairie.

This is the area hit by the two B52 raids Friday. The latest bombing, at midnight Friday, struck 20 miles west of Dong.

The other Stratofort raid came at noon today. The long-range bombers hit at Communist troop headquarters and supply areas 40 miles northwest of the coastal city of Qui Nhon. The heavy strike was in support of U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airborne Division.

Ground action across South Viet Nam was reported small and scattered once again. The only sizeable contacts were made in the two operations near the B52 raids.

Over North Viet Nam, U.S. bombers kept up their crippling pressure Friday. Pilots flew 143 bombing missions against oil depots, missile sites and transportation facilities in the Hanoi-Halong areas and the southern panhandle.

The U.S. command, in a delayed report, announced one American plane was shot down Thursday night during raids over North Viet Nam, the 388th such loss of the war. The plane was a two-place Air Force F4C Phantom. One crew member was rescued and the other reported missing.

In Friday's raids, carrier-based Navy pilots reported a lucrative day in strikes on cargo barges along the coast from Vinh to Thanh Hoa. Of some 60 barges sighted, the Navy fliers claimed destroying or damaging 40. Air Force pilots similarly claimed success against North Vietnamese positions and storage areas in the six-mile wide demilitarized zone separating North and South Viet Nam. They reported triggering 10 secondary explosions and 13 fires in the zone, indicating hits on fuel and ammunition dumps, anti-aircraft gun sites, two missile sites and 18 trucks.

Carmichael, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, is always vague on what he means by "black power," what it would consist of and how it could be obtained.

He was present Sept. 6 when Negroes rioted in Atlanta and dumped the mayor off an automobile. Later he was charged with inciting a riot.

Public opinion polls show white reaction against Negro violence is growing, that many whites think the civil rights movement is going too fast, and that many white liberals, previously sympathetic, are turning cool.

There can be little doubt the white reaction this month influenced senators who killed this year's civil rights bill and this week turned the clock back a bit on civil rights by approving a measure allowing doctors to keep white medicare patients separate from Negroes when they think it helpful.

And in the past few weeks politicians must have been stung by what happened in Maryland and Georgia where voters in the Democratic primaries picked their candidates for governor.

In Georgia it was a one-time restaurant owner and segregationist without political experience, Lester G. Maddox, who closed his restaurant rather than serve Negroes. And in Maryland it was George P. Mahoney who has had wretched political luck but this year had as his main theme opposition to open housing.

There is grim irony in the contempt shown by extremists like Watts for Negro leaders like Wilkins, King and Young. It was particularly ironic in the case of Wilkins whose NAACP has been the greatest force in obtaining civil rights for Negroes.

For more than a quarter of a century the NAACP has been intensively fighting the Negroes' cause, and with steady success, led by Walter White, Wilkins' predecessor, and then Wilkins, Thurgood Marshall, the NAACP's attorney but now U.S. solicitor general, and Clarence Mitchell, the NAACP's Washington representative.

It was the moderate Negroes like Wilkins, Marshall and Mitchell who made it possible for the civil rights movement

DEER LIFT!

Bare-handed capture of buck deer.

Airboats used in Everglades to find stranded deer.

A serious problem in the Everglades of Florida was created this summer by an overabundant Mother Nature. A record-shattering rainfall deluged the region and caused heavy flooding in the 914-square-mile area comprising the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District.

Normally, the use of pumping stations and floodgates in the region is sufficient to control deep-water situations. But, this past summer, normal safeguards could not cope with the massive rainfall.

The area, lying partly within the tropical zone, has one of the most nearly-level landscapes in the world. Eight species of palm trees flourish here. Alligators inhabit the swamplands, and the manatee frequent brackish rivers. Other land mammals abound: deer, cougar, bobcat, black bear, otter, opossum and raccoon. Among the snakes: king, tree, coral, water moccasin and rattler. Birdlife adds exquisite color, with: heron, egret, bittern, ibis, frigate, gallinule, eagle, kite, anhinga and roseate spoonbill.

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Commission operated a deer lift to get these sensitive, frightened creatures onto higher, drier land. Despite the yeoman efforts of both state and Federal agencies, unfortunately, some of the deer were still lost.

Members of the Half-Track Clubs of Broward, Dade, and Palm Beach Counties, in Florida, searched the Everglades in their airboats. Spotting the helplessly stranded deer, mired in the high-water areas, was aided by radio contact with the Game Commission's overhead helicopter.

As the individual deer would be spotted, the plan-of-action was to have an airboat dispatched to the sighted area. After locating the animal, the men would capture it, tranquilize it, bind its hooves, haul it up out of the marshes into the boat, and transport the deer to higher ground.

Sadly, some of the deer died of shock and fright, while they were being "saved". The healthier animals, safely carried from the airboats to the protection and forage of higher, drier ground, were cut loose to run free.

The Boutique

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA)— Isaac Newton proved with his little apple that everything that goes up must come down—even in London. And so in Chelsea, the home of the mod and the birthplace of that little cloth necklace known as the mini skirt, the law of gravity once more asserts itself.

Like London bridge, the mini skirt is falling down. And even the trimmest calf will now hide under the "in-est" London look—the maxi skirt.

This latest rebel fashion is a lot more modest than its predecessor but not a whit more chic. Topped with a cloche straight out of the '20s, it's a getup that could buy you a role in the silent flicks. And it will no doubt crop up here in the States as soon as it has run the gamut in London and the designers who launched it need a new source of pounds, shillings and pence.

Isn't that what happened with the mod dress and the mini skirt? When their popularity began to wane in Piccadilly, they dotted the scene in Times Square. And now Carnaby is the most touted look in New York.

Skirts so short they might have been fashioned from a couple of men's hankies usually expose a pair of heavy legs. Unfortunately, the wrong shapes have a way of falling for the latest fads. And now we're taking the ridiculous look a step further here.

Should you think no one will notice that your skirt barely covers your navel, you can catch the eye with leg jewelry like snake bracelets and such that snap above the knee or anywhere below it.

The mini skirt is sure having its heyday in America. It's no surprise that an unattractive fashion (?) can take over. The gals are legion who will wear anything as long as it's new. What does puzzle me is why we joyfully embrace last year's LONDON look. For, despite the beauty of the crown jewels, London has always been the backward child of fashion. Seems itself for New York to deck itself out in Britain's old clothes.

The famous Boston Tea Party occurred Dec. 16, 1773.

TRAFALGAR SQUARE, JUNE '66. A London girl debuts the mini skirt on a walking jaunt with her long-haired escort (left). But that was June. SEPTEMBER ushers in the "in-est" look in London—the maxi skirt. Somewhere there must be the happy medium even if it must take the shape of mediocrity.

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to Helen Help US!, this newspaper.

FAMILIES ARE LIKE THAT

Dear Helen: I've straightened my hair. And I'll never hear the end of it! Here's the scene: Mother walks in: "Oh, how hideous! You've ruined it." (Good, I'm glad.) Dad stands there and calmly says: "You look like Cleopatra." (Dad, Cleo didn't have red hair.) Grandmother strolls by: "Oh, whatever happened to your beautiful curls?" (Ugh! Granny, you know what happened to 'em.) And big brother, do you have a comment? Him: "Looks the same to me." (Scream!) Auntie comes by: "If you only knew how lucky you are to have natural curly hair."

Sometimes I think they all got together while I was doing my hair and decided to give me some kind of Chinese torture. Can't they understand I can't stand curly hair? I didn't comment on my mother's rinse, my grandmother's permanent, my aunt's dyed mop, my brother's greasy kid stuff—so why can't THEY LEAVE ME ALONE—GOING BERSERK.

Dear G. B.: Look at it this way, honey: If your father dyed his hair green and your mother painted polka dots on her legs, wouldn't you hoot and holler? So don't look for calm acceptance when you do something that—to them—is just as wild. Middle-agers and straightened hair don't go together.

Dear Helen: What's your honest opinion of mini-skirts?—DISGUSTED TEEN

Dear Teen: I quote a friend who says, "I like cheesecake, but not in such big slices!" Anything as ugly as the mini-skirt just can't last...can it?—H.

ARE YOU FOR REAL?

Dear Helen: I am the oldest (14) of five sisters. In our family, ten demerits means a barebottom spanking given immediately after the 10th demerit.

Last night my boyfriend was over when I got No. 10. With Ray looking on, Mom took me over her knee and spanked me for five minutes...Don't you think she could have waited? —Embarrassed And Sore

Dear E and S: Don't you think you could be more original? This demerit-public spanking story has been sent to me at least two dozen times, and it's getting almost as old as the one which goes, "I can't send my girl my fraternity pin because I'm in jail. Would my number do?"

Just in case it really happened—your mother deserves ten demerits!—H

Dear Helen: My problem: figuring out the brain of a red-blooded teenage boy. One minute his thoughts dwell upon bugs and worms, then a girl, and then greasy cars. And don't forget food, which is always uppermost in his mind. Fellows don't have a logical pattern for thinking. Gripe No. 2: After having a great date the logical thing to do would be to call up the girl and tell her so. But no! These crazy guys may wait two or three ### months. Meanwhile the girl is really low, thinking he thought she was a real boob, when the truth is he was just too lazy to call.

Gripe No. 3: Having two older brothers, I can see first hand how frightened boys are of girls. My brothers tell me they especially hate to ask out a real nice and pretty girl because they're afraid of a turn-down. The bitter truth is that pretty girls get saved till the last because the guys are too chicken to ask them for a date. They can't face a flat "No." That's being awfully rough on girls. I know it takes guts, boys, but PLEASE, take a chance on us. As please call us afterwards. We have feelings, too, you know.—SWEET SIXTEEN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Starting Oct. 19, housewives will be able to find a new companion amid the plethora of soap operas and games shows of daytime television. His name: Pat Boone.

The all-American boy, now 32, will be offering a half-hour, late-morning variety show aimed at young married women. He adds that any older ladies, children or men who happen to be home at that hour are welcome to tune in.

"But the show's main appeal is for young adults," says Pat. "I offered several names as sidekick-announcer for the show, and NBC rejected them, saying I should have a younger personality. We hope to have a young-looking band and will aim for youthful guests as well."

To retain the youthful pattern, he expects to feature frequent appearances of his answer to the Lennon sisters: Cherry Boone, 12; Lindy Boone, 10; Debby Boone, 9; and Laury Boone, 8.

Why is he doing the show? "For two main reasons," he replied. "One is that it will give me a chance to stay at home for a change, instead of traveling all over the world for appearances."

"The second reason is that the show will allow me to do the things that I couldn't do before: to ad lib with guest stars and with the audience and to sing a lot of songs. I'll be doing three a day — that's 15 a week — whereas I used to sing three a week on my night show."

Boone started out in television as part of the Arthur Godfrey family 11 years ago. He had previously appeared on Ted Mack's Amateur Hour. The glib, good-looking Boone gave the boy a good education in audience pleasing, and at 23 Boone was offered his own night show.

"Godfrey advised against it," Pat recalled. "He said I was too young to take on my own show and I should stay with him for a few more years before going out on my own. But I decided to take a chance."

Life In Arkansas

By AL SCHAY
Associated Press Writer
How's this for a title—Senior Junior high school coach?

That's what an Arkansas newspaper said Charlie Stephens might be, in terms of years of service at one school. Stephens is going into his eleventh year as football coach at Marked Tree Junior High School. In the 10 seasons before this one, his teams have scored 49 victories against 14 losses.

Stephens said he has stuck with a basic offense through the years, concentrating on blocking.

"If they learn these lessons well, they can take it from there when the time comes for more complicated offensive formations," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Casey of Jonesboro have closed their "old-fashioned" bakery after 21 years at the same Jonesboro location.

Looking back, Mrs. Casey said:

"I feel that every small boy and girl should have the opportunity to smell hot ginger break, fresh from the oven. It was perhaps our greatest satisfaction to see the eyes of the children light up when they saw the sweets we had baked."

What's life without a pun every now and then?... outside of pleasant.

Some youngsters who live near War Memorial Stadium in Little Rock found their television habits disturbed during the Shriners' extravaganza recently.

One explained the fireworks this way: Masonic boom.

An Arkansas golfer who recently got his first pair of glasses tried the game for the first time with improved vision. "What do you know, I can see where I hit the ball now," he said.

"Are you going to quit now, or just play without your glasses?" his friend asked.

On golfing, how about the fellow who told his partner he sure wasn't on his game? "Just what game is it you're referring to," the other asked.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope's first comedy special of the new season Wednesday night seemed to be more a demonstration of show packing than an exercise in humor.

The NBC hour got off to a star-studded start even if the weak jokes just laid there and quietly died. Hope's guests were 15 of the 35 actresses who have been his leading ladies over almost three decades in Hollywood. It took considerable ingenuity to give each one her brief moment in the spotlight.

This was accomplished by giving Hope a dream sequence. Thus he was able to dance and sing a song with Marilyn Maxwell, Rhonda Fleming and Arlene Dahl. The dream shifted to a comedy sequence that took care of Virginia Mayo, Janis Paige and Joan Collins. Finally, with nine still to go on, a sketch format was introduced.

This had Hope planning a musical version of "Gone With the Wind," and announcing that his "favorite leading lady" would play Scarlett O'Hara. In that way we glimpsed all nine girls rushing to grab the part, among them Lucille Ball, Dorothy Lamour and Signe Hasso.

It wasn't a very funny show but you can't expect too many jokes when there are so many celebrities around. And it was interesting, particularly for women viewers, to note how kindly — or unkindly — the years have treated some of Hope's feminine leads of the pre-TV days.

It was this viewer's lot Wednesday night also to inspect CBS' "Lost in Space," back for a second season. TV history since the big role was played by the space family's lovable robot which, in spite of reprogramming by the evil computers, loyally overcame the orders and saved the earth people from the automations. Never in this viewer's memory has a robot been a star — but then I have missed some earlier episodes of "Lost in Space" and "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," a series in which underwater adventurers are rather similar to those in outer space.

Beyond the three-mile limit, the oceans are known as the high seas.

Church Attendance

BUILDS CHARACTER

If A Man

THE SHEPHERD'S STAFF

...and you, too, will need it when you pass through the valley of the shadow. We grope blindly through this world as we trample law and order, and the blessings of an Almighty God. We black-out God and every opportunity to do good. The family, the church, the state will suffer for our sins of omission...our failure to possess the earth. Our goal is not the mark of the high calling which is in Christ Jesus. We know He is the light of the world but we don't care to possess it. It is dark about us and apparently we are glad of it. It is dark about us because we choose darkness rather than light. Regular attendance at church could make the dark situation light again.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH If Tongue Burns, Poor Bite May Be Responsible

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: For over six months I have been having a burning sensation on the right side of my tongue. Sometimes it goes away, but when I'm nervous it gets worse. I smoke a pack of cigarettes a day, but I stopped smoking for seven whole days and didn't get any relief.

storing the bite to its normal, harmonious position. But since this treatment is often complicated and lengthy, sufferers are usually first treated for relief of pain. For instance, it helps to limit diet to soft foods for a few days; apply hot, wet compresses to side of face over joint and take aspirin for relief of aches.

There may also be systemic causes of burning tongue. A type of anemia is thought to be involved sometimes, and vitamin deficiency has also been put forward as a cause.

Some doctors think it's pure "nerves". One recently told me he couldn't find anything wrong with a patient who had these complaints. As an experiment, he told the patient that in his judgment the cause was due to vitamin deficiency. After taking vitamins for one day the patient said he felt better. But if lack of vitamins was the cause, it would take a considerably longer period of continued dosage to give relief.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

A burning sensation on side of tongue is considered by many doctors to be a neurological symptom and is one of a group of symptoms known as Costen's Syndrome, or hinge joint dysfunction.

The hinge joint of the jaw seems to be the focal point of patients' complaints which include pain and tenderness over the joint, pain in and around the ear and side of head, catarrhal deafness, dizziness, snapping noise during jaw movement, deviation of jaw on opening and restricted movement, ringing or buzzing in ear, headache, burning sensation on side of tongue and palate and sometimes metallic taste.

It's believed that these symptoms result from destruction of normal function of the hinge joint because of early and continued loss of molar teeth, or poor "bite" of either the natural or false teeth. These conditions put eccentric pressures on the joint which eventually breaks down.

Treatment consists of replacing missing teeth and re-

WIN AT BRIDGE

Some bridge players pride themselves on the soundness of their opening bids. We have no quarrel with this policy as long as they don't feel, once they pass with one of those hands that most other players open, that they have been given a special license to make horrible overcalls.

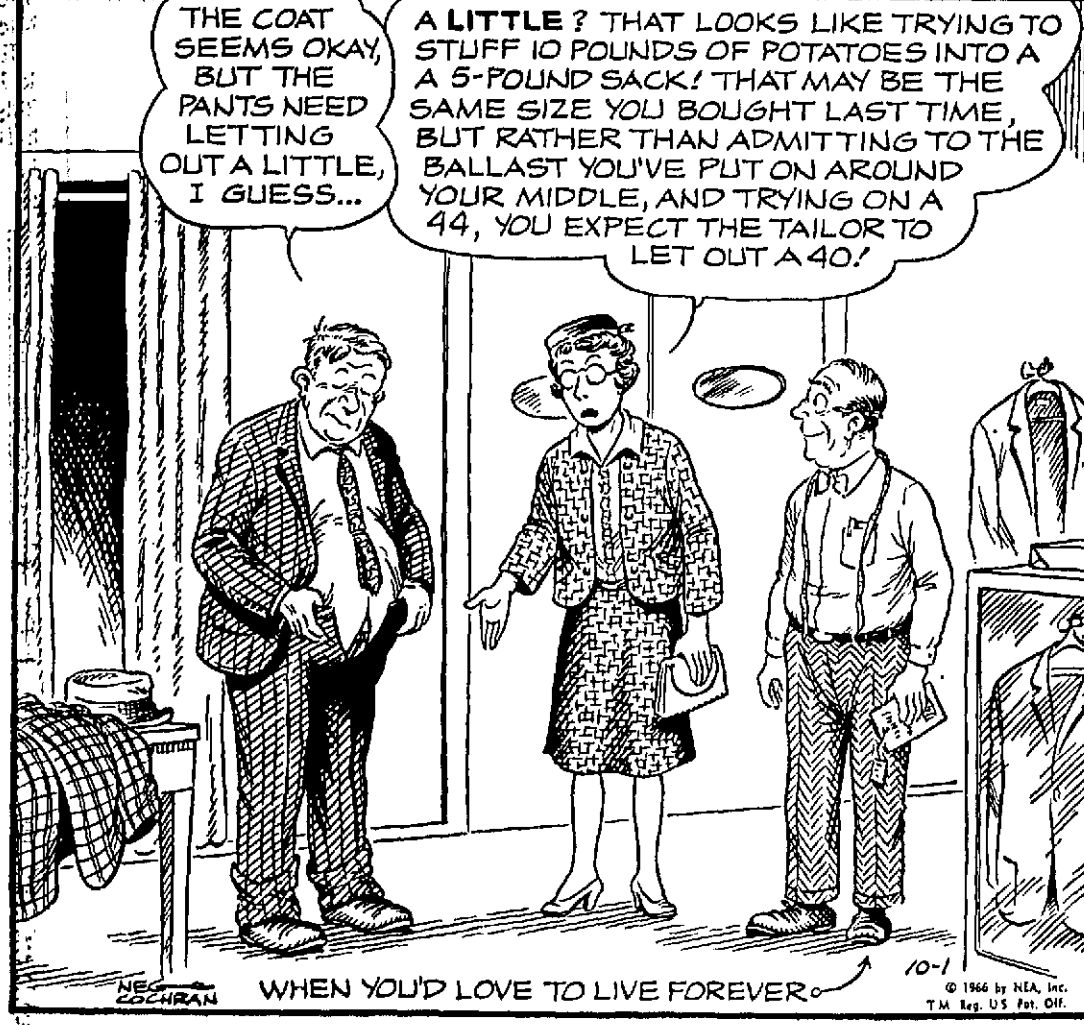

Most players would open the South hand with one diamond. The hand includes 12 high card points, a very good five-card suit and a couple of tens. This South elected to pass and if he could just have stayed out of the bidding from then on, East and West were well on their way to trouble. Even if they had stopped at one no-trump they were due for a 200-point penalty and they might have worked their way a lot higher.

South must have thought "Why should they be penalized when we can get ourselves?" He bid two diamonds.

West wasn't sure what to do but he decided to double. No one had anywhere to go although when the hand was over, East and West having marked 800 points onto their side of the ledger, North did express some ideas on where South might go.

The defense was not brilliant but it was adequate. West opened the king of hearts. East started an echo with his seven so West cashed the aces of hearts and spades. Then he gave East a heart ruff.

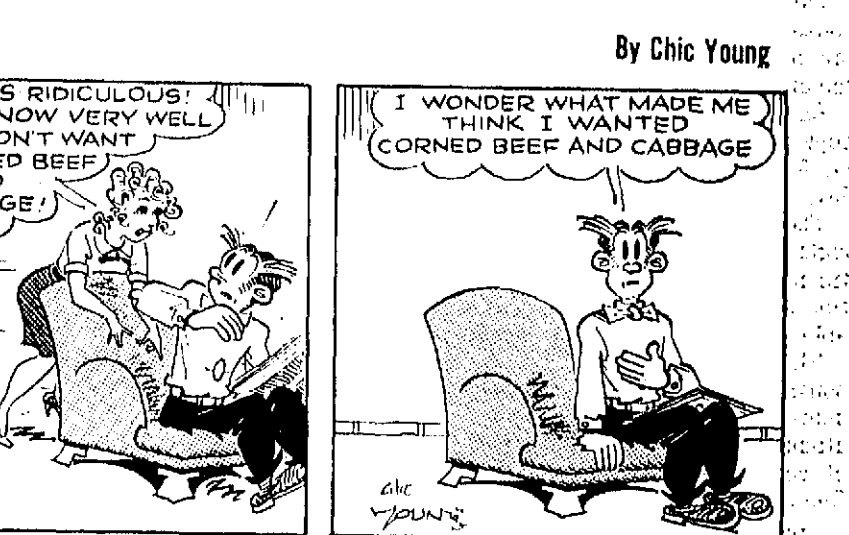

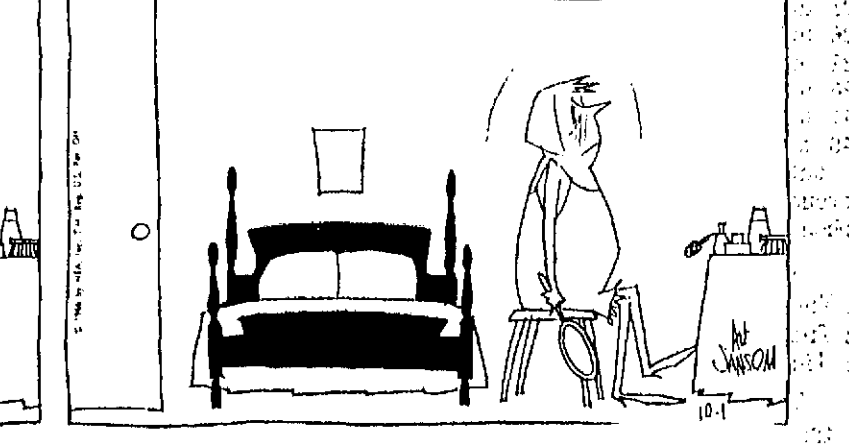

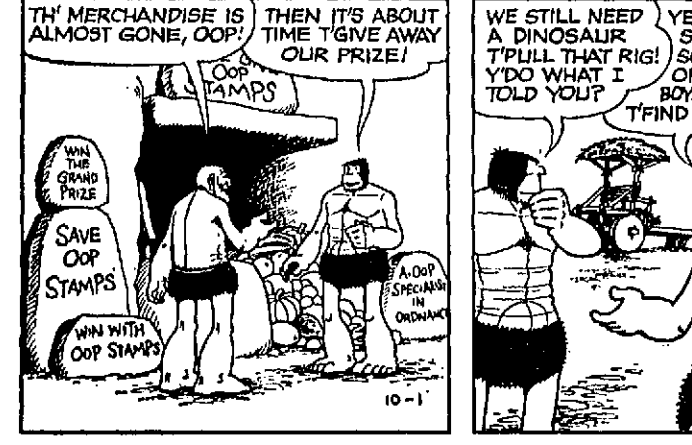

East returned a spade for West to ruff. Then West led ace and a small club. East was in with the king and led another spade.

West ruffed. That was all for the defense but they had plucked the goose clean. South was down to his five good trumps and could not use any more.

Hope Star SPORTS Cats Lose to Malvern 13 to 7

By Larry Don Wright
Hope Star Sports Editor

The Malvern Leopards became the first team to outscore the Bobcats this season as they turned back the Hope team, 13-7, in a 4AA thriller at Hammons Stadium last night.

However, the Bobcats a decisive underdog going into the contest, performed probably better than they have in any game this year. The Cats just couldn't seem to cash in on the catch-up touchdown.

The Bobcats did threaten to even the match twice during the fourth quarter but both drives were halted by Malvern after the Cats had progressed deep into the Leopard's territory.

One Bobcat march was terminated by an incomplete pass on a fourth and goal to go situation at the Leopard 4-yard line.

The other Hope threat was stopped by an interception within the Malvern 30.

Malvern scored first when they drove 65 yards to paydirt in 9 plays after taking the ball over on downs from Hope at their own 33-yard line.

Just 4 minutes and 14 seconds later on the first play of the second period the Leopards stacked up another TD on a 33-yard interception return by end Rusty Cranford.

With a little over nine minutes left in the half, the Cats took advantage of a big break which came in the form of a recovered fumble at the Malvern 7-yard line. Three plays later the Cats pushed across their lone points of the night.

The halftime score of 13 to 7 prevailed through the rest of the game as both teams spent the last half fighting up and down the field unable to tally.

FIRST QUARTER
Beginning at their own 20-yard line following the opening kickoff the Cats began an early march across midfield into Leopard territory to the 35, before running out to steam and handing the ball over to Malvern on downs.

The Leopards moved the 65 yards almost at will using only 9 downs to reach the scoring column. The Leopards do-it-all quarterback Bobby Jones slid across for the points from five yards out. PAT was missed by tackle Bruce Efrid. Malvern led 6-0.

Jones intercepted a Hope pass on the next series of downs to regain possession for Malvern. But the Cats took over on downs at their own 40-yard line. As the quarter ended the Cats were faced with a 2 and 8 decision at the 42.

SECOND QUARTER
On the first play of the second quarter Malvern's defensive end Cranford cut off a Hope aerial at the Hope 33 and it was clear sailing all the way down the sidelines to the end zone and another touchdown. This time Efrid booted the PAT good to make the score 13-0 in favor of the Leopards.

After the ensuing kickoff, the Cats were unable to find running room and were forced to punt from their own 42-yard line.

On the second play from scrimmage for the Leopards, Bobcat linebacker Dennis Turner burst through to grab a Malvern fumble and give the Bobcats a first and goal at the Leopard 7-yard line.

Tailback Danny Turner carried for 4 yards and then QB Buzz Andrews for 2 before Turner smashed over the Leopard defense from the one for the score. End Luther Shaw kicked extra point to make the score, Malvern 13, Hope 7.

The last nine minutes of the first half were consumed chiefly by a punt exchange and a pair of short drives by each team.

THIRD QUARTER
The Leopards took the kickoff opening the second half and began a gallant march toward the goal line starting at the 38. However the determined Hope defensive unit tightened to stop the drive at the home team's 5-yard line.

Malvern had started the last series of downs with a first and goal at the 9, but the Bobcats mustered a brilliant goal line defense. Starting from that point the Cats under the direction of Andrews, edged their way out to the 18. Then QB Mike Westbrook came in to throw a 32-yard pass to Shaw at midfield who had to jump high in the air to take the ball from a defending Leopard. Malvern was penalized 15 yards from that point giving the Cats a first down at their opponent's 35. The Bobcats couldn't get going though and after trading punts with Malvern, received a fresh series of downs at the Leopard 49.

FOURTH QUARTER

From that point beginning the final period of play, Hope started chiseling its way toward the come from behind points. In six plays the Cats brought it down to a first and goal situation at the Malvern 8.

Hope moved this distance largely on the strength by a fantastic 22-yard carry by wingback Stan Parris.

On first down, Parris carried 3 yards down to the 5. A handoff to Dan Turner on the next play squeezed it to the 4. Andrews was stopped for no gain on third down and then on the crucial fourth and fell incomplete in the end zone.

Malvern took over with first and ten and was off and running across midfield before penalties after reaching the 31 yard line. Tackling the Malvern punt, the Cats began at their own 43-yard line.

Apax interference penalty against Malvern gave the home boys a first down at the Malvern 40.

But on second down, the Leopard's Jones intercepted a Westbrook aerial at the Malvern 22-yard line with 3:52 left in the game to end Hope's last threat.

Although the highly praised bifocal offense of the Leopards rolled up a total of 327 yards, the stubborn Bobcat defense team did a magnificent job of keeping the Malvern powerhouse between the 30-yard lines and out of scoring range.

Offensively the Cats turned in fine performances as well.

Danny Turner led Hope in individual rushing with 68 yards in 17 carries. Andrews carried 15 and picked up 27 yards while Parris got the call 5 times picking up 19 yards. Dennis Turner took the ball one trip for 3 yards.

Showers Put Yanks in Cellar

April showers bring May flowers, but September showers helped bring last place for the New York Yankees.

Not that the Yankees didn't earn the spot all by themselves. It's just that they got an assist from the rain.

The Chicago White Sox made sure the Yankees would finish in the American League cellar for only the third time in their 64-year history by edging the one-time perennial champs 6-5 in 11 innings Friday night.

The finish actually is the lowest the Yankees ever have had. When they finished in the cellar in 1908 and 1912 there were only eight teams in the league.

The once mighty Bombers would have had a chance to finish as high as seventh if it hadn't been for the rain that fell earlier in the week. The rain in question fell in Washington last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and wiped out a three-game series between New York and the Senators.

Since the rain ended the season for eighth-place Washington and ninth-place Boston ran out of games, the Yankees went into the series at Chicago needing a three-game sweep to avert a 10th-place ending.

Three victories would have boosted them into an eighth-place tie with the Senators and would have dropped the Red Sox into the cellar.

When Roger Maris hit a two-run homer in the top of the ninth inning Friday night, the Yankees thought they had reduced their magic number.

Hogs Face TCU Frogs Tonight

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Angry Texas Christian, embittered over a seven-year drought in its annual melee with Arkansas, goes after a face-saving victory tonight at Carter Stadium.

The odds say the Horned frogs, who haven't been able to win in two inter-sectional games this season, will fail again, this time by about six points.

There are those who think Arkansas will make the margin better than that since the Frogs haven't come closer than 15 points in five years.

The Razorbacks, who haven't lost a regular season game since late 1963 and are seeking their 25th straight, look as good as ever.

They have won their opening games against admittedly weaker opposition—Oklahoma State and Tulsa—and the Frogs have lost theirs—to the likes of Nebraska and Ohio State—but this usually is the way Arkansas plays. It comes on gradually.

It had the fight of its life in edging Oklahoma State 14-10. Last week the Razorbacks knocked over Tulsa 27-0 to indicate they'll be ready to take the Frogs apart in the first game that counts in the Southwest Conference standings.

Coach Frank Broyles' fears that he couldn't replace the hard-running Bobby Burnett have dissipated under the flying feet of a talented sophomore, Bruce Maxwell.

Maxwell has carried the ball 44 times for 186 yards in two games—leading the conference—and is the man the Frogs will have to stop.

Hopes of the Christians ride on quarterback P. D. Shabay, who has passed for a 55.0 average although not able to come up with the big plays in the losing jousts with Nebraska and Ohio State.

A sellout crowd of 47,000 is in prospect.

Stottlemire's 20th loss against 12 victories. He was 20-8 last Minnesota pulled into a second-place tie with Detroit with the double victory over the champion Orioles. The Twins roughed up one of Baltimore's top pitchers in each game.

Harmon Killebrew, Rich Rollins and Bob Allison homered off Dave McNally in the opener, and Killebrew and Don Mincher connected against Jim Palmer in the nightcap.

Kansas City downed Detroit with a three-run rally in the eighth inning, the last two runs coming on Dick Green's homer. Jim Gosger and Tim Lorton connected earlier for the Athletics.

Dean Chance pitched a two-hitter for only his second shut-out of the season. He gained the victory, his 12th against 17 defeats, on Jose Cardenal's two-run single in the third inning.

AMERICA AFLOAT

By WM. T. McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.— (NEA)—"The water," Buster MacCalla thinks, "may not be the best place to get used to it."

"Too many people start out boating or water skiing before they really know how to swim. No wonder they're afraid of water sports."

About sports that are all wet, Buster should know. He's probably held more water ski jumping, tricks and slalom titles since he was eight (20 years ago) than any other slatman so far. And with four exhibitions every day at central Florida's Cypress Gardens, MacCalla spends more hours in and on the water than any performer except Flipper.

He did come ashore for two years while he was in high school, but that was to get over a broken back from a jumping accident. While recuperating, he set a new world jumping record for the time—124 feet over the water.

Going off the deep end in the pool or from a boat in open water, MacCalla insists, isn't the way to start swimming or skiing. Recently the water-ski champ has been teaching his small four-year-old namesake, Raymond Lindsey MacCalla IV, to water ski. But all the first lessons are ashore.

"Kids ought to play tag in shallow water, wear life jackets and not be rushed," Mac-

Calla says. "Actually the system is good for any age."

Then tie a tow rope around a tree, this expert suggests. Stand on the skis and practice leaning back against the rope-pull, with arms straight, as you sit and rise.

For a youngster, use small skis and tie the ski tips six inches apart with a short piece of line. Next pull him through shallow water, as a game, until he gets used to the splashing and learns to keep the tips up. You don't even need a boat to get him started.

For early training in a boat, Buster believes in putting the child in a small jacket, while wearing a life jacket. Let him paddle in the shallows and always keep an eye on him.

Buster let Lin ride along in front of him on his skis when Lin was three. Now, a year later, Lin isn't so sure he likes the sport.

"That's natural," MacCalla explains. "There's a lot of scary noise and splashing running behind a boat at 30 miles an hour. Start someone too fast on skis, or in a boat before they're sure of themselves in the water, and they'll hate it. My boy's going to take his time."

If Lin MacCalla follows in his father's footsteps on the water, some day he may not even need skis. Buster finishes his act by water skiing barefoot. And when that begins to look easy—from the shore—he does a spin and does it again. Backward.

Between You 'n' Me

BUFFALO, N.Y. — (NEA) — The Kansas City Chiefs were just filling out their dressing room in the cramped maze of War Memorial Stadium when Hank Stram, the coach, tapped Pete Beathard on the shoulder. Pete's uniform was a dainty white, untouched by human hands or the Buffalo Bills. It was halftime, and the Chiefs led comfortably, 21-10.

"I want you to go in for Lenny," said Hank. Lenny Dawson is the No. 1 quarterback of the Chiefs, and he had just confidently piloted the Chiefs to three quick first period scores with the sure poise of a 31-year-old veteran. Pete's 21.

Normally it wasn't time for a change, and Pete couldn't have been more surprised if Stram had told him to trot out with the kickoff team. He's one of that frustrated species of the neuroses of specialized football—the spare quarterback whose job it is to guard against an injured psyche while the coach goes with "experience."

Beathard's lucky. He's had only two years in the wings waiting for Dawson, who hasn't a gray hair in his healthy mane, to fall apart.

"I just had a hunch," explained Hank later. "Lenny had started to sag. Pete's a scrambler, and he's got a stronger arm than Lenny and we were going to throw into the wind."

Beathard, who actually dominated the position during an undefeated preseason, came into the game while Dawson was healthy, willing and, according to the score, able.

Pete couldn't move the Chiefs on the opening series of downs and the Bills pulled closer with a field goal, 21-13. Now that heat was on him. But, starting with the following kickoff, he alternated Curtis McCClinton and Bert Coan, his two setbacks, on sorties through the tough Buffalo line that reached the 17, second down at 13 to go.

Obviously, he had to pass. With play action, he sucked the Bills over to the right side of the field. Then swung McCClinton into the left flat all alone and lobbed the ball to him for an easy touchdown scamper. The Chiefs had breathing room.

Stram breathed easier, too, for his gamble had defied all coaching dogma about not breaking up a winning combination.

"I wouldn't hesitate to use Pete in any situation," he said. "But the thing you have to watch out for with a young quarterback is that you don't throw him in when he's not ready and could have his confidence hurt."

Beathard doesn't look like anything could hurt him. He's a sturdy 215-pounder who led Southern California to a national championship three years ago and forced Bill Nelsen to play second-string quarterback. Since Nelsen has been the starting quarterback for the Pittsburgh Steelers for more than a year, it must grate a competitor like Beathard to sit around.

The night before the Chiefs' opener with the Bills, he said resignedly, "If you let it upset you, you shouldn't be around to start with. Knowing I'm the second quarterback is a little encouraging in a way, because I know if anything happens to Lenny, I'll play. I know how Hank feels about experienced quarterbacks."

He also knew that Stram has come a long way with Dawson, whom he first coached in college ball at Purdue more than a decade ago and who brought Stram his only pro championship in 1962 when the Chiefs were called the Dallas Texans. So Lenny would start, and he did.

But Pete played the whole second half as the Chief rounded out a 42-20 rout.

"Lenny," said Hank, "is still my No. 1 quarterback. But the Chiefs' cleaning bills will go up. Pete's going to play, too. Not as second-stringer, either."
